Government Club Studies Question of Eligibility

The question of the eligibility as council candidate of B. J. Hurd one of the nine nominees of the Good Government Club and elected by that body was today before the executive committee of the organization for study. A. A. Booth stated early this afternoon that the attorney who has been asked for an opinion was too busy this morning to take up the question and that it would be some time this afternoon before it could be gone into.

Mr. Hurd, according to the city records, is not qualified to vote in the June election at which he is candidate having paid his state taxes too late to be included on the voting list. December 11th was the last day on which the tax could be paid and the records show that Mr. Hurd was too late in paying his taxes. Mr. Hurd was known for being prompt in paying his taxes but in this instance appears to have allowed the period of grace to slip by until it was too late.

It was explained this morning that the electoral board is not a judicial body and that the question of Mr. Hurd's eligibility is not within their province. The candidates are filed with the clerk of the court and they are placed on the ballot unless an issue is precipitated by a formal protest. No such protest has been filed in connection with Mr. Hurd's case and probably will not be until the matter has been studied more carefully.

When inquiries were made of Henry C. Leigh, chairman of the city electoral board, he stated that he had not heard the question raised and was not prepared to venture an opinion pending an inquiry into the matter and a due consideration of the facts.

The city attorney, who was asked about the matter stated that he would also not undertake to render an off-hand opinion. His opinion would be rendered only in the event of the Council calling on him for his ruling, and this has not been done.

Mr. Hurd, when questioned last night, declared that it was news to him, that he certainly thought that he was qualified, but was not quite certain as to the date he last paid his taxes.

Jesse W. Benton, secretary of the electoral board, when asked if Mr. Hurd was qualified to vote in the June election, scanned the lists and said that he was not.

The matter is one which will finally be determined by the electoral board when the time comes to prepare the ballot to be presented to the voters.

Another aspect of the qualification question is what effect his recorded vote on matters which have come before the city council since he has been a member of the council might have.

Powerful his qualification to sit in the present council will mean that the matters on which he has voted are not necessarily involved. On the other hand, the view may be taken that if he has been an all along ineligible for office, the matter of his vote is void.

The matter of his vote is void. Such a chance seems to be remote. However, in the light of an explanation made by City Auditor R. P. Moss, who pointed out that the required majority for a bond ordinance is two-thirds, Mr. Hurd's vote might still be thrown out without disturbing the election of the council.

The vote on bond ordinances recently before the council has been unanimous.

It was indicated last night after the discovery had been made that the whole matter would be gone into exhaustively today, and the Good Government Club, which has nominated Mr. Hurd, will spare no effort or inquiry to determine fully and conclusively the question as to the eligibility of the gentleman nominated from the First ward.

In the event the constitution was amended to provide for the exclusion of the uneducated and the unit, and as part of the plan of accomplishing such a result, the council had the poll tax pre-arranged and required the payment of the preceding year's payment on tax at least six months before the November election of the ensuing year. Later, the council deemed it wise to fix the election of mayors and councilmen in June, instead of in November in order that local government and the selection of good municipal officials might not be shadowed by national contests for State and federal offices. In doing this, and national provision as to the payment of poll taxes at least six months before any election, had it provided that all persons qualified to vote in the November election preceding would also be qualified to vote in the city elections of June, no question could have been raised.

City Treasurer George P. Geoghegan verified the information as to Mr. Hurd's failure to pay his 1933 poll tax on or before December 16th—six months before the June election—election—but it was also developed that he had paid the 1933 tax in January, 1934, thus qualifying him to vote in the August primary and in the ensuing general election in November. While professing merely his authority and authority, Mr. Geoghegan expressed the view that the selection of Mr. Hurd by the Council as a member of that body was legal and that he was eligible to each election. The only question now is as to Mr. Hurd's eligibility as a nominee for the Council, since his ineligibility to vote is unquestioned.

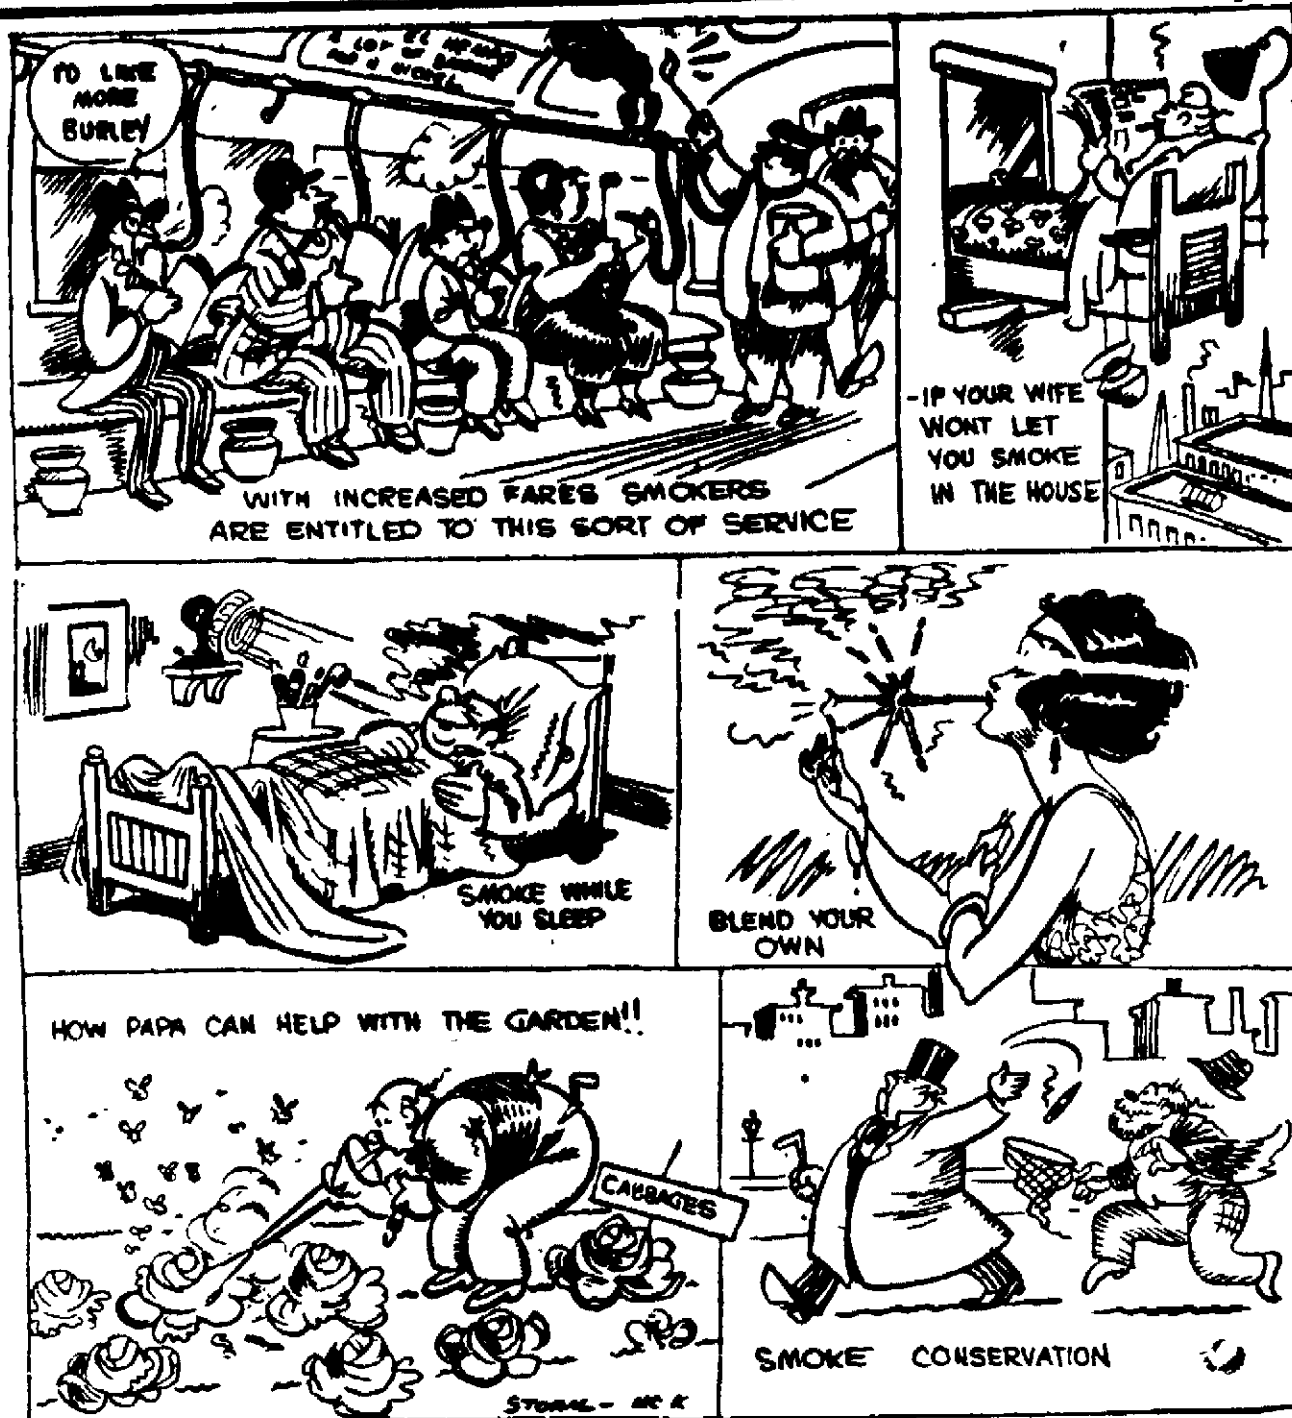

Section 32 of the Virginia constitution has this statement affecting the question of eligibility as a candidate: "Every person qualified to vote shall be eligible to any office of the State, or of any county, city, town, or other subdivision of the State, or wherein he resides, except as otherwise provided in this constitution and as to residence shall not apply to any office election by the people where the law provides otherwise."

The constitution contains no other provision affecting the eligibility to an office, which is plainly set forth, and which carries with the right of registration that of voting, also.

Mr. Hurd was a qualified voter in November, and he continued to be until he came within the operation of the poll tax requirement. The idea that the selection to fill a vacancy by members of the council could in any way invalidate an ordinance, resolution or act of the Council while serving by appointment as a member of that body is regarded as unsound. That is merely a lay view, however, not a legal or a judicial view.

Section 32 would seem to establish the eligibility of Mr. Hurd to the office, for he would not take office as a member of the Council until September 1st, by which date he is married.

What's Going on in the World WEEK'S CHIEF EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART

In the German election the monarchists, militarists, aristocrats and plutocrats gained heavily at the middle parties' expense, and so did the "reds," the former because Germany's naturally reactionary, and the latter because of the masses' misery.

If times improve, it means permanent conservative strength; if not, it may mean communism. Germany will adopt the Dawes financial plan, but only by a small majority.

Balkan Trouble. In reward for joining the allies, Rumania got Bessarabia from Russia when the war ended. Now it's reported Russia means to get it back. Anyway, Russian troops are gathering on the border.

The threat alarms Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Greece. Should there be fighting, it's even hinted France's interest might pull her in.

Nobody can tell where these Balkan outbreaks, once started, will stop.

Japan. President Coolidge, though for practically complete exclusion, instead of mere immigration limitation against the Japanese, wants to postpone it.

John C. Faucette Dies In Colorado

Information privately received here this afternoon brought word of the death at 6:16 o'clock this morning of John C. Faucette, a well-known to the tobacco trade here. Mr. Faucette was a partner in the Piedmont Warehouse Company, and until two years ago, when he moved west, had been one of the city's floor managers. He is widely known among farmers in the surrounding country. Mr. Faucette, recognizing his failing health, moved to Colorado Springs in the hope that the rarer climate would benefit him. He moved his family out there and bought a homestead. He failed to improve and recently had declined rapidly. He was about 45 years of age and was a native of Rockingham and was married to Miss Zeno Lander, also of Rockingham, who survives him with five children. He came to Danville about eleven years ago and became associated with the warehouse on Elm Street Methodist church. His remains will not be brought east but he will be buried in his adopted State.

Verdict In Game Department Probe Is Expected Today

(By The Associated Press.) RICHMOND, Va., May 16.—Indications are that a verdict in the investigation of the Virginia Department of Game and Inland Fisheries will be reached during the day. Chairman Willis, Roanoke, of the legislative committee which conducted the inquiry, declared shortly before noon today.

The chairman was asked if two reports would be made in the case. He replied that deliberations of the committee had just been started and that it was impossible to answer the question.

The verdict will be made public at the same time our report or reports are ready for announcement, according to present plans," he said.

SHOW VIEWS OF EARTHQUAKE Stereoscopic slides, showing the damage done to Episcopal churches in Japan during the disastrous earthquake will be shown next Wednesday night in the Sunday School room at eight o'clock. The slides were recently received in New York and are said to show graphically the losses sustained by the church through the destruction of churches.

It makes the eligibility of a man to office dependent upon his being a qualified voter at the time of nomination, but rather at the time when he would enter upon the duties and responsibilities of the office.

The courts would probably determine any question of eligibility according to the intent of the framers of the constitution, so far as the eligibility of the man to office is concerned. It is a matter of interpretation.

until next spring, to give time for the diplomatic negotiations toward ending the present arrangement—the "gentlemen's agreement" between the two countries. "But Congress doesn't want to wait. It's uncertain whether or not the president will be able to get his way by the veto route."

Anyway, the situation's bad. Immediate war won't result, but, as the London Times expresses it, "the seeds of conflict have been sown."

Cuba. The Washington government has authorized arms sales to the Havana government to fight Cuban revolutionaries. However, some Americans are on the revolutionaries' side. Especially on the Isle of Pines they say the Cuban officials are terrorizing them and are asking military aid to stop it.

W. J. Burns. W. J. Burns said ill health was what made him resign as head of the Justice Department's secret service, but nobody expected him to hold the job long after Attorney General Daugherty quit. He was too much identified with Daugherty's policies.

Aviation. Major Frederick L. Martin's disappearance from the army's flight party around the world puzzle experts. Flying mishaps are common enough. That one should have befallen the flyers' commander isn't especially surprising. But why should just one of the party have had such persistent hard luck? Perhaps it will never be known, for he is generally believed Martin was lost at sea.

Wets and Drys. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's prediction that the Republicans will lose Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Wisconsin, Illinois and Missouri unless they declare for prohibition modification has upset Republican politicians in Washington considerably. But indications are they're more afraid of the dries than of Dr. Butler as a prophet.

(By The Associated Press.) CORDOVA, Alaska, May 16.—Prevented by rain and winds from hopping off yesterday from Attu Island, the westernmost tip of the Aleutian group, for Paramashira Island, Japan, three United States army airmen were again prepared to take off today if weather conditions permitted, on the longest leg of their world flight.

MORE INFORMATION ON SALE OF SHIP SOUGHT

(By The Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, May 16.—Further information regarding the sale of the steamship Martha Washington to an Italian corporation of Trieste was sought today by the House Committee investigating the shipping board. Among the witnesses summoned were several shipping board officials and the clerks of the house merchant marine and Senate foreign relations committees.

EDNA WALLACE HOPPER TO WED BRITISH FLIER

(By The Associated Press.) LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 16.—Edna Wallace Hopper, actress and exponent of the modern theory of rejuvenation, announced here today that she will be married to a former British army officer in China next month.

She declined to reveal the name of her prospective husband, explaining that she had "already lost a couple" that way.

BILL IS REQUESTED

(By The Associated Press.) LONDON, May 16.—The House of Commons today rejected the mines nationalization bill by a vote of 264 to 168.

REFUSE IS TAKEN

State Witnesses Are Heard In Carter's Case

(Special to The Bee.) WENTWORTH, N. C., May 16.—The trial of W. Austin Carter, charged with murdering his wife at Heldaville last September, was begun in Superior Court this morning. The jury was selected after several hours yesterday evening, and the taking of the testimony began at half past nine o'clock today. When court recessed at one o'clock, five witnesses had been examined by the State and while there are many others in reserve, it was indicated that few more would be called at this time. The witnesses heard this morning established the facts of the shooting, the gist of those being that Cartered the parlor of the home of J. J. Moore where his wife was staying and where other members of the family were gathered, and began shooting. His wife was the last person to be shot, three other kinsmen being wounded. No indication of what the defense will be, has been given, but the view prevailing here is that it will be temporary insanity. The case probably will extend through tomorrow.

BAPTISTS SCORE MODERNIST TREND; ACCEPT OLD DOCTRINE

(By The Associated Press.) ATLANTA, Ga., May 16.—A severe arraignment of the modernist trend of thought and unqualified acceptance of the fundamental teachings of the Bible are expressed in a resolution which today is before the resolutions committee for action by the annual session here. The Southern Baptist convention in annual session here. With a vote on the measure expected before the convention closes tomorrow, leaders predicted today that it would be adopted by virtual unanimity. It declares steadfast belief in the doctrines of the old and new testaments and condemns any denial of them as "gross heresy and destructive of Christian faith." The resolution, presented to the convention by Dr. R. K. Malden, of Kansas City and referred to the committee at his request, shared interest in the session yesterday with a proposal authorizing the creation of a committee to prepare a "Christian conception of war." Offered by Dr. J. J. Taylor of Jasper, Ala., and concurred in by Congressman William D. Upshaw, of Georgia, the so-called peace resolution likewise was relegated without discussion to the resolutions committee. By the decision of the committee on time and place, Memphis virtually is assured of the 1926 convention. Mrs. W. C. James, of Baltimore, was elected president of the convention at the session closing session last night.

SEEK DANVILLE'S QUOTA The task of securing a quota of the $50,000 necessary to endow a chair of nursing at the University of Virginia has begun. A group of twenty men are canvassing to secure the money and a committee of ladies will go after it tomorrow. This is the first appeal the nurses of Danville have made and they are encouraged to believe that Danville will do its part, a neat sum is said to have been raised through the staging of the Signal Piers. It is hoped to close the campaign within three or four days.

After Suffering Tortures of Hell for Five Years and Contemplating Suicide, Caro- lina Man Re- stored to Health By the Man Who Knows

I suffered with eczema for 5 years, what was pronounced weeping eczema and I was so completely broken out all over my body with these irritating itching pimples and I had scratched myself until I was completely sore all over. I was treated by 5 doctors in my home town and being an ex-soldier I was treated in U. S. Veterans Hospital, No. 6, Olean, N. C., by 20 or 30 different doctors and I seemed to grow worse all the time. There was just one thing that kept me from suicide as I did not feel that I would die and get relief. I would get so despondent with it that I would have to lay awake all night and scratch and every doctor would tell me that he would do all he could for me, but that eczema was very hard to cure. I had given up all hope of ever being cured when the Indian Medicine man came to Winston-Salem, N. C., advertising his medicine and I met him at Patterson's drug store and he saw my condition and I asked him if he could do me any good and he said that he had a preparation that would clear me up and brought me over to Danville with him. I began using his preparation and began improving. I have been here 5 weeks and I am all cleared up as you can scarcely tell I have had eczema. I am at least 99 per cent. well.

(Signed) My photograph will appear in Danville papers in the next few days as I want the public to know how much I have been benefited by the wonderful remedy. Prepared by the Man Who Knows.

State of Virginia, City of Danville, To-Wit: a Notary Public, this 15th day of May, 1936. P. H. LYON, Notary Public. My commission expires February 17, 1935.

French Styles Call For Lots of Lace On Dresses

By AILEEN LAMONT

(Copyright, 1934, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, May 16.—If the pretensions of women were as easily seen through as the lace which will adorn most of the summer frocks, half the mystery of womanhood would be lost. Vision now-adays, however, goes only so far when it encounters a slip. In the matter of pretensions, the slip is encountered earlier than in the matter of dress.

At any rate present day chests and closets are filled with lace trimmed garments. This is to be expected in the case of June brides, but it holds good even with those whose hope chests have had time to become depositories for matrimonial regrets.

The French designers are lavishing lace of every description on the summer frock, and on the evening frock. One of the most charming examples brought to this side recently is an afternoon dress of dark brown georgette trimmed with watney lace on the same color, which extends in a long V from the bateau neck line to the waist line and which has inverted V shaped insets of the same material extending from the arm pit to the skirt hem.

The similar inverted V trimming of the skirt is followed in an evening dress of white satin which is adorned with silver lace. In the bouffant mode, the skirts frequently are trimmed with deep borders of silver lace, and medallions of silver lace, picked out and emphasized by embroidery of pearls and bright beads.

Perhaps the most striking model seen recently however, is a creation of molting lace, a lace of lace, a lace of lace, a lace of lace. This beautiful costume—for the hat and scarf all harmonize—is of light gray muslin which shows charm to two flounces of black lace, closely resembling Chantilly, overlaid from the low waist line to the hem. The ends of the scarf are similarly encrusted, as is the brim of the gray cape line hat.

There can be no doubt of the popularity of panels, lace or otherwise. One clever young woman seen recently on the avenue achieved a striking panel effect by means of a bright flame colored scarf. Wearing a blue Perret twill tulle dress, she had wrapped the scarf tightly around her neck and buttoned the long trailing end under the jacket so that it fell in a wide colorful panel from the bottom of the short coat to the hem of the skirt. The otherwise common place dress and skirt, which were of a simple, elegant design, were transformed by the use of the scarf into a masterpiece of mediocrity. Of the other trimmings, besides lace hair and hide are the most novel. One frock of French derivation consists on a straight bodice, a skirt of silver worn with a black slip with the skirt adorned with a dozen complete horse talk, dyed red, gray and white, hanging from the hip line to the hem.

Belts, especially those with sport costume have ceased to be a mere adornment of leather and have broadened to a width of at least two inches. The buckles usually are of mazynege design.

LONG DISPUTE IS FATAL TO THREE

CHICAGO, May 15.—Are age-old disputes between men of different ages and health conditions, working in the same office, as to whether the window shall be up or closed, flared up in the casting room office of the Illinois Malleable Iron Company today resulting in the death of three men. But the question was not settled.

John C. Gardner, 40, and suffering from a chronic cold, objected to open windows and cold drafts through the room. Younger men working in the room insisted upon cold air and lots of it. They began opening the windows in January. Gardner was considered an old crank and it is said he was about to be discharged. Animosities increasing hourly, began to prey on Gardner's mind. He fancied a conspiracy to ruin his health and deprive him of his livelihood.

GANZERT GRANTED A CONDITIONAL PARDON

RICHMOND, May 15.—William Ganzert, convicted of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Percy Robbins and sentenced to one year in jail on May 6 was given a conditional pardon on May 9, three days later, it became known yesterday.

Governor Trinkle is out of the city but at his office it was stated that Ganzert's pardon is conditional on his good behavior. The petition was presented by Dr. J. J. Scherer and Dr. C. H. McFadden and was signed by Judge Richardson and Commonwealth's Attorney Satterfield. It is understood that all the jury also signed the petition.

That news of the pardon did not become known until yesterday is due to the fact that Governor Trinkle makes it a practice never to announce when a pardon is granted.

The killing of Robbins was a sensation when it occurred August 10 at midnight at the corner of Ashland and Randolph Streets. Robbins was a veteran of the World War and enjoyed an excellent reputation in the community.

At the trial Ganzert stated that he heard Robbins and Jennings French, a friend of his, fighting and that it was necessary to strike Robbins to separate them. He stated that he feared to carry Robbins home, but that witnesses, thinking he was only stunned, thought this unnecessary.

The prosecution contended that Robbins was the victim of Ganzert's drunken aggressiveness—that Ganzert, purely voluntarily, entered the scuffle and knocked Robbins to the ground. The testimony of several witnesses who had said they saw this was cited. Ganzert's bail of $1,000 was renewed, pending argument on a motion for a new trial. On May 6 it was decided that appeal would not be made and the sentence was pronounced.

At the office of the governor it was stated that the pardon had been granted because the evidence showed that Robbins' death was caused by an injury to his skull, which struck the curb-stone when he fell. The ministers and the officials who signed the petition took the view that the tragedy which resulted in the death of Robbins, it was stated. It was said that the time when the fight, with its tragic sequel, occurred.

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO BETTY (LADY CARNOVAN), CONTINUED

"The fact remains, my dear sister," said Leslie in a hasty but decisive manner, "that Karl did give them to me, and unless he wishes me to return them to you, I should feel as though I were slapping him in the face should I do it."

I never knew that Leslie had so much spirit. She must have gained something in her marriage with John Prescott, who, by the way did not come with her to meet us; neither did Leslie bring her adopted baby.

Did you ever know anything so ridiculous as a young and healthy woman, in the first years of her marriage, adopting a baby? She is certain to have some of her own, and there will always be a difference between them. I said as much to Leslie, and she pointedly told me I didn't know what I was talking about.

I rather resent this adopted child in Leslie's family, but dad and grandmother love upon it. Mother is quite disconsolate that Leslie didn't bring the child with her.

I have quite decided that my marriage will take place the first Wednesday in June, which is, as you know, only about a month distant. Karl has not seemed as happy since he returned as he did in England. I am not at all jealous of my sister, for I can hold and keep my own at all times, yet I am not unaware that Leslie was Karl's first love, and that that love lasted from the time they were children through the years until she married—and after, I do not disguise from myself, either, that I am entirely different from my sister, who if she could have loved Karl would probably have made him much happier than I shall, for they are the same romantic and sentimental ideas.

But I know one thing—I shall be better for Karl. I shall make something of him besides a dreamer. I'm going to be a leader of society in Pittsburg. I can see you smile, Betty, for after being a member of the smartest set in London, to be a leader of society in Pittsburg means nothing except that one is a leader of something.

I do not intend to stay in Pittsburg long anyway, for I hope to persuade Karl to return to England to live.

By the way, Betty, I saw Edger-ton Santly last evening. Tell Lucy Roke, his sister, that he is looking especially well. Much to my surprise he came over to our table and after the most cursory greeting to me and to Karl, he became most cordial to her last visit to New York.

I don't quite understand, Betty, why my sister is always such a favorite with men. She never seems to be a flirtatious sort, and yet I am sure that she only has to look at one with those big brown eyes of hers to find him immediately groveling at her feet. The queer part of it is, she is clever enough to seem unconscious of it.

Foreigners are in the bulk of the purchasers Sunday in their gala day—and Saturday night they buy viands for their to follow on the morrow.

The development of the telephone has not done these people yet. They do not use an order to the grocer and a delivered a short time later a uniformed chauffeur. They go to market, with their baskets hanging from their arms, hawkers, eyeing and shrugging, bark the glory of their wares and barter vigorously for the surplus trade. Nothing necessary for the table may be purchased from them.

About night the din dies out, and the criers and peddlers sink away into night. All that is left is the de.

Snake-Skin Hats the Latest

UNIQUE COMBINATION OF FROG-SKIN PURSE WITH GOLD TASSLS AND SMALL TURBAN TRIMMED WITH GILDED SNAKE SKIN. SO SKILFULLY EMPLOYED AS TO SIMULATE A SNAKE'S HEAD.

By M. TH. ERESE BONNEY

PARIS, May 16.—There are certain things Milady shudders to contemplate, and yet Parisian creators have dared to make them popular. Snakes, lizards, frogs and, above all, rats!

Even the most timid could scarce resist the charming creation of snake-skin hat and purse by Marthe Regnier—the most enchanting green specially treated and beautifully colored, but snake it remains, for the scales have not been removed.

There are lizard-skin purses and hats, too. The "grand chic" in Paris this spring is shoes and purse or hat and purse to match. Perugia, king of French bootmakers, has created an extremely popular lizard-skin shoe. It is of African lizard, the skin of which is of the finest texture and dyed in popular colors—red, dark brown and blue.

By far the most popular beast of the season is the often despised, much avoided pig. Pig-skin, hitherto introduced by Molyneux and used on small hats of heavily braided straws or on coquettish brown felts, pig-skin belts or smart little one-piece kasha dresses and pig-skin purses in large flat envelope form. All these seen in natural color and in gay colors.

A still more recent and original creation is the frog purse, extremely useful for small change, for which the entire skin is used, with precious stones for eyes—another Regnier creation. Quite the newest and latest in sport shoes is fashioned of elephant skin, by Perugia. And there are charming fur coats made from the skin of "palm tree" rats. In days of old, the mere mention of most of these animals in polite society was considered a breach of etiquette. Now everyone is asking everyone else, "Have you seen the adorable elephant-skin shoes at Perugia's?" or the charming snake-skin hat at Regnier's?" or "I simply must have one of Patou's 'rat des palmiers' coats." It sounds so much less ratty, in French.

MAY RESUME FLIGHT TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

CORDOVA, Alaska, May 15.—Storm-lashed waters around Attu Island prevented the three United States Army cruisers encircling the globe from leaving for Paramashiru Island, Japan, yesterday and moderate weather today enabled the aviators to continue inspection of their machines, according to a wireless message received here this afternoon. They probably will hop off tomorrow.

A WORD TO WOMEN

A hundred and twenty-one thousand women would comprise a vast army. Yet a canvass was recently made among more than that number of women who had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for feminine ailments. The result proved that ninety-eight out of very hundred reported benefit from its use. This is most remarkable evidence of the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the ills of woman-kind, and should influence every sick and ailing woman to try it—adv.

EFFORTS TO OUTGUESS WEATHER BROUGHT GRIEF TO THE WORLD AVIATORS

Original Plan Had Called For Fliers to Hop-Off From Seattle About First of June When Weather Conditions Would Have Been More Favorable.

By WILLIAM C. LYON

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee) WASHINGTON, May 15.—Efforts to outguess the weather dope in the tropics brought grief in the arctic to Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the army's fleet of "round the world" aviators, according to officers here at headquarters of the army air service.

The original plan for the flight contemplated the hop-off from Sand Point Field, Seattle, about the first of June. Major General Mason M. Patrick, head of the air service, had approved this plan. All efforts were concentrated on making such a schedule. But preparations for the flight moved with more dispatch than was contemplated and the fliers were eager to be off on their record breaking and chart-making voyage. They brought pressure to bear and succeeded in getting the consent of the officers higher up to start the flight almost a month earlier than planned.

With this consent, it was understood that caution was to be the paramount consideration of the fliers. It was planned that they should make the first part of the flight in slow stages. They were to remain for a week or more at a point, if necessary, to await the most auspicious flying conditions. But the flight planners were less concerned about weather troubles in the rugged, little known sweep of the Aleutian Islands, than in the tropics of India where the wet season with its continuous rains begins about July 1. They wanted to pass India before July.

Officers asked why the army did not select a time when more favorable flying conditions existed on the first leg of the route declared today that the record so far indicates the weather conditions have not been the worst.

"It must be taken in consideration," said an officer of General Patrick's staff, "that we had to observe weather conditions, not for a certain district or section of the globe. We had to consider the whole circuit around the world. The accident that brought down Major Martin's plane is one that might have occurred at any time." It was explained that in the section along the Aleutian Islands and in the far north of the Pacific, fogs and snow flurries may occur at any season of the year.

The chief aim of the schedule, he asserted, was to put the fliers across India in advance of the rainy season, and later, to enable them to navigate the broad stretches across the North of the Pacific, fogs and snow flurries may occur at any season of the year.

The chief aim of the schedule, he asserted, was to put the fliers across India in advance of the rainy season, and later, to enable them to navigate the broad stretches across the North Atlantic, on the last lap of the world flight, in advance of the great ice does in the early fall. It was impossible, he said, to map out a schedule that would present the best flying conditions along all parts of the route. That, he added, is one of the obstacles that must be overcome in circumnavigating the earth by air.

Army officers say the remaining planes are now at the deciding point of the venture. If they can successfully navigate the great hope from Attu to Japan, the last stretch across the Pacific, officers believe, the judgment as to picking the weather conditions will have been justified. Every confidence that this will be successful is expressed.

Observers of record flights today were pointing out the "jinx" that appears to hover around the commanding officers of great adventures. They recalled that Commander J. H. Towers, who led the navy's flight across the Atlantic in 1919, came to grief when his plane made a forced landing in mid-ocean while the remaining fliers successfully reached the Azores and then flew on to Portugal. They say it was no more a case of weather then than now. It was "hard luck."

Staff officers express confidence that the remaining planes, or some of them at least, will successfully make the circuit and will be in the United States again by September.

"Some of those planes will be on exhibition at Dayton next October, when the annual Pulitzer race is staged," one of them predicted.

A KID AGAIN!

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16. — Once there was a barefoot boy in Ludlow, Vt., who dreamed of climbing the elephants' back, or ridden in and round the sawdust arena. Cal Coolidge was his name.

The other day, shaking the cares of office and the worries of a coming political campaign from his shoulders, he stepped about more briskly than Washington has seen him step in many days.

"Going to the circus," he admitted. Had he cared he could have mounted the elephants' back, or ridden in the chariot, or done anything he wished. The press agent would have thanked him mightily.

But now, had come between him and boyhood desires, the dignity of high office.

Did he wistfully wish that he could change places with some small boy and—

Reidsville

REIDSVILLE, May 15.—In a large meet, featured by the cracking of records by both boys and girls the annual junior high field day was completed last week-end. The meet, in the girls events, resulted in a victory for the eighth grade, the score being 52-23. The seventh grade showed promise of having an excellent team next year, though, fifteen girls participating in all, a pennant goes to the winning team.

Evelyn Lane was high scorer individually, scoring first in the basketball throw, baseball throw, 80-yard low hurdles, and in the hop-step-jump. In the last two of these events she broke the school records, beating the former hop-step-jump mark to 20 feet five inches, held by Hunt Barber, by covering 25 feet four inches, and bettering the low hurdles record of the junior high school boys by one-tenth of a second, making it 12 8-10 seconds. Elva Cox was second high scorer with first places in the 50 and 75 yard dashes.

Baraca-Philathea Convention

Mrs. N. Buckner, the state secretary, writes that many prominent speakers are coming to Reidsville next month to attend the Baraca-Philathea state convention. Writing to the local publicity committee, Mrs. Buckner says:

HIS ARM CRUSHED
IN RAIL ACCIDENT

W. M. Pickrel, of Gretna, Va., a flagman on a Southern railway freight train, was struck and knocked from the top of a box car by one of the projecting mail cranes which overhang the track. In his descent to the ground, he fell between two axles of the wheels of which crushed his right arm so badly that it had to be amputated at the shoulder-joint, the operation being performed by Dr. E. H. Miller, the railway surgeon, at a Danville hospital to which the injured man was brought as quickly as practicable after the accident, which occurred near Gretna.

The injury of Mr. Pickrel is a peculiarly distressing one, for he is a married man with a wife and eight children. His condition is regarded as favorable.

Power Companies Favor Goernment Operation Shoals
(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 15.—Government ownership and operation of Muscle Shoals would have the support of power companies in the South. E. A. Yates, general manager of the Alabama Power Company, told the Senate Agriculture Committee at today's hearing.
The Power Company would purchase the power from the government and distribute over their interconnecting transmission lines under the provisions of the Federal Waterpower Act, Yates said. This would mean the government would have entire ownership and control of the property at all times, he added.
Replying to Senator Kendrick, Democrat, Wyoming, Yates said he saw "no reason whatever" why the government should not retain ownership of Muscle Shoals and sell the power, and "in some respects" he believed this was a better policy than private operation.
He told the committee that the Alabama Power Company which now owns land at the site of the proposed dam No. 3, would not resist the building of this dam by the government and would release their holdings at a fair price. He explained that the Alabama Power Company had given the government the site for dam number two for one dollar during the war.
Chairman Norris declared there would be a shortage of power in the United States within a few years, even if all the power resources were developed. He said demands for power were becoming greater all the time and that was why he favored developing Muscle Shoals and all other power sites in the country.
Yates declared that if the co-ordination power plan of the Associated Companies was adopted, available power at Muscle Shoals would be increased by 75 per cent. and $4,000,000 and 450,000 tons of coal could be saved annually.
If the southern states are ever to get hydro-power it must come from Muscle Shoals through the co-ordinated operation and inter-connection of Muscle Shoals with the other power resources of the Southeast, Yates said.
Declaring the power companies bid contemplated serving farmers with a large amount of power from Muscle Shoals, Yates said agricultural engineers estimate that more power is now required to operate farms than is required to operate any other industry in the United States.
If the potential $60,000,000 horse power at Muscle Shoals is withdrawn, it will hasten the time when the wa-

Shewmake Won't Offer Re-election
(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., May 15.—Oscar L. Shewmake, completing the unexpired term of Major Alexander Forward, who resigned from the State Corporation Commission last December will not offer for re-election in the primary this year the commissioner declared in a statement made public here tonight.
Mr. Shewmake has accepted a position with a New York concern and will enter upon the duties of general counsel of the company December 1, he said.
One candidate to succeed Mr. Shewmake is already in the field. Mr. C. M. Chichester who is now counsel for the commission having announced his intention of offering for the position.
In making known his intended resignation from the state service, Commissioner Shewmake issued the following statement:
"I will not be a candidate for nomination for the office of member of the State Corporation Commission of Virginia in the Democratic primary to be held on August 5, which is, of course equivalent to saying that I will not be a candidate to suc-

I have heard of no opposition to my nomination in the election. I had decided to file a declaration of candidacy, and I have received many unsolicited and flattering offers of support in case any such opposition should develop, but while I am intensely interested in the work of the commission and am deeply grateful for the assurances of support I have received, I have been tendered the position of general counsel for a financial institution in New York City which, from a financial and professional viewpoint, is too attractive to be refused by a lawyer of moderate means with a family dependent upon his earnings.
"I expect to take up the duties of my new position about December 1, and in the meantime will continue to serve as a member of the State Corporation Commission until after the election of my successor in November. I am announcing at this time that I will not be a candidate because if the Democratic party in Virginia should honor me with its nomination in August, I would feel bound to be a candidate in the general election; and if the people of Virginia should see fit to elect me to this office I would not then feel free to accept the position which has just been offered me."

League of Women Voters in convention here. Professor J. H. Latans of Johns Hopkins University and Dr. S. C. Mitchell of the University of Richmond, were the principal speakers.
Dr. Latans, discussing the Monroe Doctrine, declared that this policy was hopelessly confused with a policy of isolation in the minds of the American people. "Monroe advocated," he said, "a protection of the territorial identity of the nations of the Western Hemisphere—all the United States could undertake at the time. But Wilson extended this policy to all the world."
Dr. Mitchell advocated the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations, especially the World Court. "Lodge and the Foreign Relations Committee," he declared, "are blocking the American conscience, and they should be overcome by public sentiment."
Miss Josephine Schain also presented a strong appeal for this country's entrance into the World Court, with a subscription dinner at which Mrs. Helen R. Henderson, of Russell county, and Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, of Norfolk, members of the Virginia House of Delegates, will be guests of honor.

League of Women Voters in convention here. Professor J. H. Latans of Johns Hopkins University and Dr. S. C. Mitchell of the University of Richmond, were the principal speakers.
Dr. Latans, discussing the Monroe Doctrine, declared that this policy was hopelessly confused with a policy of isolation in the minds of the American people. "Monroe advocated," he said, "a protection of the territorial identity of the nations of the Western Hemisphere—all the United States could undertake at the time. But Wilson extended this policy to all the world."
Dr. Mitchell advocated the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations, especially the World Court. "Lodge and the Foreign Relations Committee," he declared, "are blocking the American conscience, and they should be overcome by public sentiment."
Miss Josephine Schain also presented a strong appeal for this country's entrance into the World Court, with a subscription dinner at which Mrs. Helen R. Henderson, of Russell county, and Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, of Norfolk, members of the Virginia House of Delegates, will be guests of honor.

I have heard of no opposition to my nomination in the election. I had decided to file a declaration of candidacy, and I have received many unsolicited and flattering offers of support in case any such opposition should develop, but while I am intensely interested in the work of the commission and am deeply grateful for the assurances of support I have received, I have been tendered the position of general counsel for a financial institution in New York City which, from a financial and professional viewpoint, is too attractive to be refused by a lawyer of moderate means with a family dependent upon his earnings.
"I expect to take up the duties of my new position about December 1, and in the meantime will continue to serve as a member of the State Corporation Commission until after the election of my successor in November. I am announcing at this time that I will not be a candidate because if the Democratic party in Virginia should honor me with its nomination in August, I would feel bound to be a candidate in the general election; and if the people of Virginia should see fit to elect me to this office I would not then feel free to accept the position which has just been offered me."

POSTHUMOUS PROMOTION IS PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Posthumous promotion of soldiers would be granted under a resolution introduced today by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia. About their cleaning work—far more so than is the average man. It is significant to note that almost all of the women's business comes to us. We know how to please particular folks.

Let us hope for a little encouragement from Washington. The market as well as the business world is in a receptive mood and would act accordingly.

MORNING STOCK LETTER

(Thomson & McKinnon.)

NEW YORK, May 16.—For the next few days the market will undoubtedly take its tone from Washington. The bonus bill and tax legislation are of such vital importance to the country that their acceptance or rejection is of the utmost interest. Should the bonus veto be upheld and some satisfactory agreement be reported in the conference on the tax bill the market is in a receptive mood and would act accordingly.

On the other hand, decisive action antagonistic to executive ideas would in all probability mean a continuation of the present apathy in business which in turn would be reflected in the security market.

Let us hope for a little encouragement from Washington. The market as well as the business world is in a receptive mood and would act accordingly.

MORNING COTTON LETTER

(Thomson & McKinnon.)

NEW YORK, May 16.—Cables a shade better than due. The South had scattered showers particularly in the eastern belt but the forecast is for better and warmer for East and West. Market writers credit the sharp advance in last hour to heavy buying by New York and New Orleans professional interests, coupled with purchases of about ten thousand October and January by spot people, probably for trade interests.

Worth street had a fair business yesterday, good sales of print cloths for June and July delivery.

The chances for warmer weather may check the advance of market but the plant has had a setback recently.

Aged North Carolina Minister Is Seriously Injured at Atlanta

(By The Associated Press.)

ATLANTA, Ga., May 15.—The Rev. R. L. Boyd, 60, of St. Paul, North Carolina, attending the Southern Baptist Convention here, was run over by an automobile and seriously injured late today near the convention hall. At the hospital to which he was taken it was said his injuries consist of a broken leg and internal hurts, the extent of which has not been ascertained.

G. D. Lewis, 22, driver of the machine, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and is held without bond pending a police inquiry.

FUNERAL

The death rate lately is quite a bit higher than a year ago. An average of 4200 Americans a day are passing on into the hereafter.

As they exit from one side of the stage of life, newborn babies arrive to take their places. It's the same show, generation after generation. The actors and scenery change, but the plot never.

Whether life is a tragedy or a comedy, depends largely on our mental attitude. The choice of being happy or unhappy is up to us.

SAVED

A serum that will reduce pneumonia deaths by a fourth or even a half is discovered by Dr. Lloyd B. Felton. This is not medical jazz like monkey gland stories. Felton's method has been tried out at Harvard medical school and announcement of its success is sanctioned by conservative medical leaders.

Felton is a young man from Ohio, only 22.

Banting, discover of the insulin remedy for diabetes, also is a young man.

Watch the generation that now is reaching mental maturity. It and the generation now in the cradle probably will stamp out tuberculosis and cancer.

CAUGHT

The inheritance tax was put into effect to raise revenue and to curb the concentration of too much wealth in a few families. We were on the road where 100 or fewer families eventually would own 95 per cent. of the United States.

Cunning lawyers showed rich clients how to evade the inheritance tax by giving part of their wealth to their children before father's death. This dodging would be negatively and properly checked by the amendment to the tax law, as proposed by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts. He

The Seniors of Oak Level High school will present a play Friday evening, at eight o'clock, "My Irish Rose."

The commencement exercises of Oak Level High school will begin on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, June fourth. At that time, Dr. T. R. Sanford of South Boston will deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

On Thursday evening, June the fifth, at eight o'clock the grammar grades of the school will present an operetta, "Cinderella in Flowerland." This promises to be well presented with lively songs and beautiful costumes.

June sixth at eight o'clock p. m. will be the final evening of the exercises. W. C. Griggs, superintendent of Danville City school will render the literary address.

Mrs. J. Lawson Carter, Mrs. James W. Collier and Hodges Carter, of Chatham, are visitors in the city today.

Chatham

CHATHAM, May 15.—The annual meeting of the Danville District Methodist church on Tuesday and Wednesday, Rev. S. J. Battin, presiding elder of this district, calling the conference to order and presiding at the several sessions of the two days. With few exceptions the churches of the district composing the city of Danville and several counties, ministers and delegates and the attendance was very good and the program one of the best for many meetings in that nearly every number of the program was taken care of and the important and instructive business of the church. The opening sermon was by Rev. S. T. Senter, D. D., of Mount Vernon church, Danville and was an elaborate and interesting one.

Every subject came in for its share of time and the discussion of the report on superannuated Endowment Fund held sway for some time. The other reports were very encouraging. The delegates and visitors were sumptuously served dinner each day in picnic style.

Farm Conditions

The rain of the wee khas kept land out of plowing order most of the time and farmers are becoming anxious to get tobacco land in order for planting, next week being the best time for planting but plants while plentiful are reported small and will not do for setting for several days but plants grow rapidly when the weather becomes warm and the continued cool weather has been one cause of the slow development. Large quantities of fertilizer have been hauled from this place and every indication points to a large acreage being set in the county. The wheat and grass have shown considerable improvement and the cool rainy weather has been good for grass. Gardens are doing very nicely and planted potatoes are growing well. Most of the corn is now planted and while the spring seems late, farm work is fairly well up.

Rev. H. H. Hargrave, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Jefferson and Mrs. T. J. Gray are attending the Baptist General Association in meeting at Atlanta this week.

Court this Monday

The regular May term of Pittsylvania county circuit court will open on Monday next for the term with criminal docket of many cases, most of which are for violating the prohibition law. No cases of much importance are docketed for the term and being at the busiest season of the year with the farmer the term will be of short duration.

The Field Day exercises of the Chatham Episcopal Institute were on the campus on Wednesday afternoon in which the student body participated and many events were made in which many contested. The afternoon was interrupted with a steady rain fall before the program was over and some of the events will be run off today.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vaden, of Cheraw, S. C. were guests of Mrs. G. H. Vaden one night this week leaving on the following day for Lynchburg to visit the home of Mrs. Harold Vaden.

The delegates elected here on last Saturday by the Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association of this district composed of Pittsylvania county will meet here on the 20th, at which time the district director will be chosen. F. O. McCormick is now director and is a candidate to succeed himself.
